Add on Certificate Course on Goat Farming

Commercial Goat farming is growing quickly in India because of increasing the demand for goat meat. People of India love to eat the Goat meat that's why the price of goat meat is continuously increasing day by day. And it will also increase in the future because the taste of goat meat is unique and there is no religious taboo on eating goat meat in India.

Goats are a very practical and valuable animal to invest in. Their adaptability makes them an outstanding option for rearing for domestic and commercial /hobby ventures.

Goats require minimal upkeep and therefore, provide a good supply of revenue for active goat farmers, as well as new commercial grazing businesses, wanting to add variety to their animal stock.

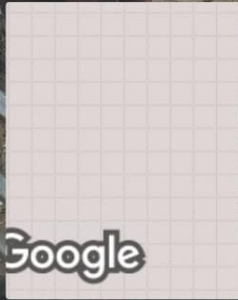

Department of Zoology has offered this course for B.Sc. II students. This course was conducted during the 01st January 2018 to 5th February 2018.

For this course 25 students have been enrolled. During this period the lectures and practicals were conducted by resource faculties. Mr. V.N. Bankar and Mr. C.B. Jawale conducted the practicals and theory period.

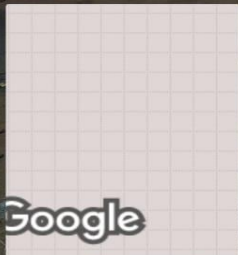

The course covers the necessary knowledge about goat farming including how to raise a goat, how to take care of a new born goat, how to give them food, how to choose the food and how to judge the nutrition value of their diet, etc.

The course is beneficial for students to become a good entrepreneur.
