Herbarium Technique Training

REPORT

Herbarium is collection of preserved plant specimens along with associated data arranged systematically for the purpose of scientific study. These herbarium specimens are useful in floristic, monographic studies of particular region. They help in scientific study of any taxa at same place within short period of time and also protect the species from frequent disturbance from nature. The Department of Botany, D. P. Bhosale College, Koregaon has organizing Herbarium Techniques Training on Saturday, 08th January 2022 in the Botany lab. The students were provided with flowering twigs of some local plant species like Catharanthus roseus (L.) G. Don., Barleria prionitis L., Hibiscus rosa-sinensis L. etc. and old newspapers for pressing. The students were trained by Dr. S. M. Deshpande, Head and Assistant Professor, Department of Botany, D. P. Bhosale College, Koregaon, with the help of staff of the department. Total 21 students from B. Sc. were participated in the training activity. The feedback was collected by google form from the participants.
